

COLORADO FOREST
RESTORATION INSTITUTE

Colorado State University

FOREST ECOLOGY FIELD TECHNICIAN

The Colorado Forest Restoration Institute (CFRI) at CSU is hiring multiple (8-10) summer forest ecology field technicians to assist with forest restoration research and monitoring projects throughout Colorado. Duties Include: Measuring forest and tree characteristics, Fuel characterization and sampling, Plant identification, Understory vegetation monitoring, Safely navigating with maps, compass, and GPS, Occasional lab/office work in Fort Collins.

Required Skills and Experience:

- Demonstrated interest in learning about forests, restoration ecology, and contributing to science research.
- Ability to travel multiple days and work unusual schedules.
- Ability to maintain a positive attitude, keen attention to detail, and a sense of humor while working long hours under adverse, and often changing, outdoor conditions.
- Demonstrated ability to work safely and efficiently under minimal to no supervision.
- Ability to work cohesively as a member of a team required--generally in groups of 2-10.
- Work-study students encouraged to apply.

Pay $12-$14/hr plus per diem and travel expenses.

Dates of Employment:

Full time May-August 2018. Start/end dates and CSU Mountain Campus negotiable.

To Apply:

Please submit a resume in PDF format, contact information for 3 references, and an unofficial transcript to JobX (through RamWeb – On-Campus Hourly Jobs – “Forest Ecology Field Technician” – job ID: 11777)

Applications reviewed as received, or by February 16, 2018.

Questions? Contact Emma Williams at Emma.C.Williams@colostate.edu

